

A badly designed table is constructed by nailing through its center a circular disk of diameter 2 meters to a sphere of diameter 1 meter. The table tips over to bring the edge of the disk into contact with the floor. As the table rolls, the two points of contact with the floor trace out a pair of concentric circles. What are the radii of these circles?