Lecturer in Mathematics, #500031

The Department of Mathematics at Iowa State University is seeking lecturers. Depending on the teaching needs of the department, appointment could be part time or full time ranging from one semester to three years. Lecturers will teach undergraduate mathematics classes in both small and large lecture format. In addition, duties may include departmental service. A candidate hired as Lecturer may be eligible for advancement to Senior Lecturer after six years of Lecturer experience.

The Department of Mathematics houses an active research environment consisting of over 70 mathematicians and 88 graduate students. As part of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Department is strongly committed to advancing the frontiers of knowledge in both pure and applied mathematics. Members of the faculty are active in cross-campus collaboration, as well as in professional organizations including the AMS, SIAM, and the MAA. For further information about the department, please visit our website at http://www.math.iastate.edu.

Iowa State University (www.iastate.edu) is classified as a Carnegie Doctoral/Research University-Extensive, a member of the Association of American Universities (AAU), and ranked by U.S. News and World Report as one of the top public universities in the nation. Over 34,000 students are enrolled and served by over 6,100 faculty and staff (see www.iastate.edu). Ames, Iowa is a progressive community of over 60,000, located approximately 30 minutes north of Des Moines and recently voted second best most livable small city in the nation (see www.amescvb.com).

All faculty members are expected to exhibit and convey good citizenship within the program, the department, college and university activities and collegial interactions and maintain the highest standards of integrity and ethical behavior.
